

Auf dieser Seite stellen wir Bilder für Medienberichterstattung zur Verfügung. Die Bilder sind frei verfügbar, sofern sie im Kontext einer Berichterstattung über das Projekt «Die Dritte Welt im Zweiten Weltkrieg» Verwendung finden.

Panel with title of the exhibition
(Source: recherche international e.V.)

African soldiers of the British colonial Army
(Source: Imperial War Museum, London)

(1930s) Colonial Soldiers from Africa in French trenches

(Signal Corps) African soldiers for the Signal Corps line in the mountains of New Guinea

(Colonial Soldiers from Africa) in winter 1944 in Northern France

(South Pacific) A Chaco, to Somalia (the) liberation of Guam from Japanese occupation

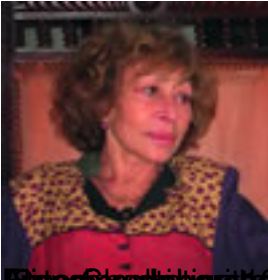

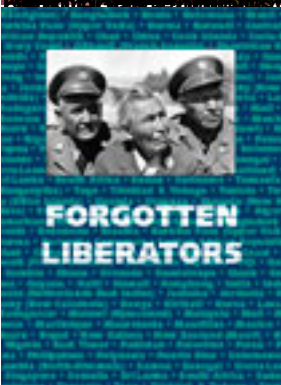

Photo of a woman in a patterned vest and red top. Caption: Rejection of the anti-Semitic laws enforced in Algeria by the

Photo of an elderly woman speaking into a microphone. Caption: She was abducted and abused by the Japanese Military at the age of

Photo of a shirtless man. Caption: He lived on the President Islands, Kennedy

Book cover for 'FORGOTTEN LIBERATORS'. Caption: Forgotten liberators of the 20th century. A book about the lives of men and women from third

Photos from South Africa: □

May 1940: Recruiting of Cape Corps volunteers
(Source: Department of Defence Documentation Centre, Pretoria)

Training of soldiers of the Cape Corps
(Source: Department of Defence Documentation Centre, Pretoria)

Preparation of soldiers from South Africa for attacks with poison gas by Italian troops in Ethiopia
(Source: Department of Defence Documentation Centre, Pretoria)

South African Department of Defence Documentation Centre, Pretoria)

South African Department of Defence Documentation Centre, Pretoria)

South African Department of Defence Documentation Centre, Pretoria)

South African Department of Defence Documentation Centre, Pretoria) (Seite 88 unten)

South African Department of Defence Documentation Centre, Pretoria)

SPRINGBOK LEGION

SOLDIERS ORGANISE FOR POST-WAR SECURITY

The Springbok Legion, a 1941 organization of the 4th South African Brigade, is the first of its kind in the world. It is a voluntary organization of soldiers who have been fighting for an organization which will provide them with a home after the war. The Legion is not a political party and its members are not to be confused with the members of any other organization.

To maintain the morale of the Springbok Legion, the members of the organization have been organized into a number of committees. These committees are responsible for the welfare of the members of the Legion and for the maintenance of the Legion's standards. The members of the Legion are also responsible for the maintenance of the Legion's standards and for the maintenance of the Legion's standards.

The Guardian, 10.11.1941 - Soldiers demand post-war security

South African Field Force Delegation Christian Soldiers Caring for Black Soldiers in North Africa

William George Bone, 1st Director of the Ex-Servicemen's Club in Cape Town

William George Bone (left), Dennis Norman Marthinus (middle) and Dennis Norman Marthinus (right) (National e.V.)

Major George Bone (left) (North Africa), Dennis Norman Marthinus (middle) (Tobruk, North Africa), Dennis Norman Marthinus (right) (Trompet)

Walter C. Anderson (participated as driver in the battle of Sidi Rezegh in North Africa)